Serving others, giving hope, changing lives

National Health Center Week

For more than 50 years, community health centers have provided high-quality health care in communities across the country. With the support of grassroots advocates, these centers have reached beyond medicine to improve lives, enhance access, reduce health care costs, and create a positive impact.

Centers such as HopeHealth not only prevent illness and foster wellness in the most challenging populations, but also produce innovative solutions to the most pressing health care issues in our communities.

Each year, during National Health Center Week, health centers across the nation focus on raising awareness about existing community needs and the costs of not providing access to quality care.

Join us in helping keep policymakers informed on the importance of centers such as HopeHealth. Be a Community Health Center Hero and take the pledge to become an advocate today at hcadvocacy.org or sign up at any HopeHealth location on Wednesday, Aug. 15.
